I have read the capitol report about over draft fees, about the so call industry participants counter that consumers have to be responsible for their accounts. I remember when these industry individuals were glad when the American Taxpayer Bailed them out, these are the same guys who were not responsible enough to take care of their accounts so they want it 2 or 3 fold, higher overdraft fees, foreclosures (have the money from us and have their house too, good deal) now lets buy up their bad assets too. Give money to the rich so they can buy up the housing market at a low price and continue to make a large profit, of course if they fail we the people will bail them out again. How smart are we?
