banks should not be allowed to do this. If the money is not there it is not there. It is their way of making money. I have auto depoist and once it didn't come through and it cost me 35.00 each time i used my card. If my card was rejected because the funds were not there I would have been aware that there was another problem going on. It cost me almost 222.00 extra because the card contuined to be accepted. The banks i think are well aware of this. (regulation E-electronic fund transfers (R-1343
