thank you for looking into these overdraft fees,It seems to me that my bank tends to deposit my checks the same night my direct deposit goes into the bank.but they cash the checks hours before the direct deposit goes through,thus I end up with overdraft fees. It also seems my computer balance and the atm balance and the tellers balance for my account never seems to be insinc.so when one tells me there is money in the account there is not and a charge was put through and again i pay overdraft fee, i have contacted peoples united bank on this and everyone gives me a different reason for what happens.and while you are looking nto overdraft fees ,it seems new fees have popped up,such as out of country transactions,who knows if you by food somewhere if the deposit is going to canada or england.and when it does new fees for that. please help the working class family ,who can not keep up with the banks trickery to charge us money and don't even know why
