To whom it may concern;

I do monitor my finances daily sometimes even hourly. However, I would prefer to have the option to Sign up for this so-called 'overdraft loan protection program' than to automatically have someone else assume what I would like to have done with MY EARNED HARDWORKING MONEY!!!! These are my finances and I don't agree with someone choosing to enroll me in a program that I might end up paying for later that I never even heard about nor agree with.

It's quite disconcerting to me that the government would allow for banks to take advantage of consumers like this, but I guess that's the whole reason why we're in such an Economic mess simply because The Banks did take advantage of consumers and now they're basically trying to make up for it by slyly attaching unknown fees to cover their debt.
