

From: Anonymous
Subject: Electronic Fund Transfers

---

Comments:

Hello,

I wish to say that It is the year 2009.

Computers work at lightning speeds, and so should our banking transactions. The transactions should occur at a single point in time, and if there is not enough money to cover the transaction, then the transaction should FAIL. There should be no question as to when and how transactions occur. I just got charged $109.00 for three overdrafts in one day from Wachovia, this morally repugnant. Disgusting.

This has to end.

Sincerely,
A concerned Citizen

--

Let us not seek the Republican answer or the Democratic answer, but the right answer. Let us not seek to fix the blame for the past. Let us accept our own responsibility for the future. - John F. Kennedy