Hi

Banks should be required to have our permission prior to instituting any policies and or change such as this one on our accounts since they can be financially devastating.

Banks have been taking advantage of consumers for far too long and as the market consolidates, consumers are left with fewer and fewer options to fight them.

The current situation with credit card fees, interest rates, and account adjustments are another example of an industry that is taking unfair advantage of consumers during a time of economic need. The worse thing is that we have spent millions bailing them out and all they have done is increase their holdings & profits while they continue to gouge the very people rescuing them. Please stop the madness. Increase regulation & control of an out of control industry.

Thank you,
