Comments:

Dear Sir or Madam, Deposit consumers have become the next wave of high profit for the banking industry. I have seen this targeted practice much too often as I have counceled young families and disadvantaged families who most times have more month at the end of their money. This profitable practiced can break the backs of families or individuals who find themselves hundreds of dollars in the red due to a misbalance of less that $100. As many other comments reflect my suggestions to a fair practice, it is imperative that some regulations are put in place as our underclass continues to spiral over small mistakes. The voices of the people must speak loud!
