Comments:

All information about transactions should be posted in real time and immediately available for customers, not 3 days after they have been done. This is the case of The City National Bank of West Virginia's website. I had a complaint with the OCC but it seems like nothing changes. With today's technology real time should be the rule, even in third world countries example (BANCOLOMBIA)(CIB) in Colombia South America does it in real time, why we can do it in the U.S? Political interests maybe?
