To The Federal Reserve,

This is in reference to Docket No. R-1343 and it is this consumers response. It is time that big business stops breaking the backs of honest working people who were raised to trust banks and deposit their hard earned money and build credit for themselves. Banks and those calling themselves banks, including insurance companies, are killing the American way of life with their greed, often with the support of our "representatives" in Washington, DC. For once, please help us working folk by putting a stop to this gouging, and make our banking system the "honest" business it was long ago. No fine prints, no changing anything in mid stream, no hidden fees. The fall of the second Roman Empire is happening, and like before, from the gouging and greed of the people entrusted by the working people to care for it. Sincerely,
Wendy A. Henderson
