Please, all these TIL rules are too ludicrous to go into indepth detail. If the big players would have obeyed the current rules in place, we would not have the problem on the market today. Denying Loan Originators the ability to make a living will not make the industry better. The big lenders will monopolize the market and where will we be. Of course, I feel like I am wasting my time commenting on this because when was the last time government officials did what was in the best interest of the people. I don't think I can remember. Stop the madness! Be the public servant that you are suppose to be. Doing what is right is just not politically correct anymore. Again, stop this madness!
