

From: Evan Fulmer
Proposal: 1300 Guidelines for Furnishing Information to Consumer Reporting Agencies -
Version 2
Subject: Fair Credit Reporting Act Guidelines

Comments:

Date: Jul 20, 2012

Proposal: Guidelines for Furnishers of Information to Consumer Reporting
Agencies [R-1300]
Document ID: R-1300
Revision: 2

First name: Evan
Middle initial:
Last name: Fulmer

Your comment: The banking industry has proven time and time again they must be tightly regulated to prevent corruption and damage to the world economy. To make sure that the banks don't feel they have free rein to run wild every little action must be open to public view. If the actions are honest there will be no problems, the banks may be forced to justify many of their actions. Even with this type of transparency some misdeeds will still happen, but many more will be stopped, and we will all benefit from tight controls and full transparency.