Subject: Study on Credit Bureaus Handling of Disputes

Credit reports have never been accurate for me. They have accounts open that have been closed for years
They have addresses that I have never lived at. And they never correct there mistakes when you call them out in writing

They have no problem putting misinformation in a report without questioning it. But will not listen to you when you try to correct them. I found this to be the case in all three credit reporting agencies. I monitor my report monthly. Am proactive in trying to get errors fixed. Its frustrating.

Thanks for you time!
Ron
