Regarding: Docket No. R-1250 (Procedures to Enhance the Accuracy and Integrity of Information Furnished to Consumer Reporting Agencies)

In 2004 I told you that credit reporting agencies are not providing consumers all information in their files (a requirement since 1997).

Since then, I scrutinized consumer reports (credit reports) for more information not disclosed to consumers by the agencies, and I found more.

See the story unfold, with letters of response from the agencies, at <http://creditaccuracy.com/0005.htm>. Please address it.
