Comments:

As a small business, in order to stay in business and keep competitive we need our customers to have the convenience of using their credit cards. Yet the credit card companies can charge whatever discount rates that want and we are forced to live with it. They send out 10 page letters telling us what the changes are, but you would need a legal person to interpret all that was written. Please help make the disclosure easier. We pay the credit card company on the gross dollar amount of our sale. This includes the taxes which we remit to the local jurisdictions. We are paying the credit card companies for the privilege to collect taxes for other entities. This is very unfair to small businesses.
