Aadvantage citicard states on website payment option that up to four payments can be made in one billing cycle. When I tried to make a second payment in a month, a red printed line appeared on the website stating that there must be a 15 day spread between payments. I informed citicards that these statements were contradictory and they told me to mail a payment or pay by phone (for $14.95). I opened this card in order to get frequent flier miles. I can't wait to see what they do when I try to use them!
