Subject: Regulation Z

I agree with the new rules. The only people opposed are the crooks in the business. An honest person cannot survive in the mortgage business. I tried and could not concur the thieves that were promising borrowers unrealistic rates and no fees that were completely untrue. Anybody that has a problem with the following rule is definitely trying to take advantage of a borrower "A new disclosure for Mortgage Brokers only that will require you to disclose, before application, what your mortgage brokerage fee (front end AND back end fees) will be on the loan and this cannot change" How can any honest business person be opposed to a straight forward rule that discloses their fees and commissions ? If they oppose these rules you know for sure they were apart of the mortgage industry disaster that the country is going through now. Please enforce these rules and more.
