I feel strongly that these new rules/laws unjustly target the mortgage broker in an unfair way. If it is full disclosure that is the goal, why not have banks, savings & loan co's, and mortgage bankers also comply with these proposals? Really. If you just want to further burden the mortgage broker why not eliminate the industry entirely and outlaw mortgage brokering entirely? Because it's all about big business, isn't it? Well I hope you keep the money printing presses going because at this rate and in many ways because of miserably poor and greedy leadership, my family and I may soon be on welfare anyway.
