Comments:

Chase Bank raised my interest to 29% for no reason of late payments or missed payments. 2 Other banks also raised interest to 18.9% for no non-payment issues. All 3 said my credit balances were too high for their policies. Yet all 3 continued asking me to charge more without any concerns of missing payments. I have never missed or ever late with any of these credit card accts or any other acct. types. I thought earning miles and gifts were a good idea. UNFAIR/Foul and I cannot get them to reconsider. Started to pay off but am mad. First credit card banks/companies should not be giving credit after a limit is met. Second- interest cannot be raised above agreed to % or hooked to money rate etc.at time of agreement and it should stay reasonable. All this business about calling them to not have a higher charge and arbitrarly raising to an exhorbent % is nonsense!!!!!!!
