Comments:

It is time to consider the fact that money or economic gain is definitely the root of all evil and that persons who administer money are essentially evil doers. They are not benevolent persons so any laws enacted to control the use of money must recognize that persons can be evil, not crooked, simply evil and that evilness can be wide spread through out all institutions. private, public and religious. In point of fact many public servant actions when analyzed, are the epitome of evil actions.
