Dear Email comments,

It's high time that credit card companies were reined in, rather than let them continue swindling the public with impunity. They have made an art form of concealing fees, manipulating figures to their advantage and our detriment, and finding new and amoral ways to bleed the least fortunate totally dry. I'm tired of paying these companies to let them make profits with my money. Please consider making a few simple changes to level the playing field and make our credit system more equitable and honest.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jessie Casteel
