Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

Credit card companies are doing as much damage to the economy as the high prices for food and gasoline. They take advantage of people-some who should know better (such as myself), but also of some who don't know any better.

Someone has to rein these companies in. Of course they are in business to make money, but do they really need so much money that they cause their customers to lose their homes? I think not.

Make credit card companies more responsible, then maybe consumers will be more responsible as well.

Sincerely,

Ms. Beth Tatum
