Comments:

Credit card issuers gouge the consumer every way they can. An example of deceptive practice is they'll intentionally post your payment as lat, therefore they will collect a $29.95 late fee PLUS interest on your account, generally at 21-30+% interest. The other thing they do is to send you innocuous looking throw aways with your statement or use 4 point type print on the statement somewhere you wouldn't normally look and change the conditions of your account! Our current system allows this kind of deception without regulation. Please do soomething! Thank you.
