Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

I have experienced these tactics first hand and had many arguments with the credit card companies. I have excellent credit and pay my bills on time and I resent the extremes some of these companies go to in order to get a few extra dollars out of consumers.

I have been charged interest on a zero interest purchase because there is another purchase on the account, even when I pay more than enough to cover both purchases. This is underhanded and all consumers should be protected.

Sincerely,

Ms. Coreen Davis
