Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

The fact that credit cards can change my rate for any reason at any time is a scary one. They are not keeping their word when they have an offer out there for consumers and this should be stopped, along with any other tricks the companies can pull like not enough time between billings and applying a payment to only the promotional low interest rate balances first while the higher balance stacks up.
Not fair.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Pamela Wunderlich
