Dear Email comments,

Hi,

I am a tax payer, and credit card holder. I have worked hard my whole life, and it has not been easy. We all have problems in our life, but it's how you respond to them that can either empower or defeat you. Credit Card companies are really taking advantage of people. I understand that it is a business, and as an individual it is my choice to use the card. I also know that there is a line that has been crossed by the credit card companies that [passes beyond business and is really gouging the consumer with horrendously unfair (in my opinion) bordering on illegal practices. I really feel that somebody has to do something, before things get worse. The credit card companies have to be held accountable for their choice in how they conduct business, and their lack of compassion for the everyman. Please be the person that chooses to act and be a part of the solution. Please vote to enact the tough new rules to make the credit companies accountable for their actions. It isn't right that a company can hike the rate you pay on your existing balance for any, or no, reason. That, plus all the other many (many!) abuses of power they have enacted against the consumers led me to right to you this evening. I sincerely hope that something will be done, before things go from worse to who knows what. Thank you for your time. God Bless. olympia vlassopoulos

Sincerely,

Ms. olympia vlassopoulos
