Dear Email comments,

You must stop credit card companies from stealing from their customers. I always pay my credit cards off in full every month. I was ripped off periodically by one credit card company who would sit on my payments until they were late, then post them and charge me late fees and interest. They also refused to credit me the 1% I was supposed to earn on purchases. When I called to object, I could never seem to get to the right department, I was shuffled around, promised call backs that never came, etc. I believe they engaged in an organized, deliberate scheme to cheat me. To me, this is racketeering, fraud, and outright theft.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ron Domsch
