Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

The credit card companies have shamelessly created a generation of young people in debt (to their eyeballs) because of unfair and selfish reasons. They gave poor students credit cards knowing the students couldn't afford to pay, then when that happened they ruined their credit rating because of late or non-payment of debts the credit companies created themselves. IS THAT THE AMERICAN WAY? All the money problems this country is experiencing is based on bad practices by these thug-like white-collar credit/bank companies. They have no shame and can get away with it because this is America and they have no qualms ruining good, honest people. In actuality they are traitors and should be treated as such.

I see them no better than drug dealers. A cancer on our society that must be eliminated. Can our congress really do nothing about this? Are our kids never going to be able to afford housing? This is congress satisfied with American becoming a 3rd world country run by white-collar thugs?

Please don't let that happen. Do the right thing for America. At least protect this generation of would-be middle class Americans forced into poverty for no fault of their own. Look at the numbers, you will be appalled... at least I would hope so.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Diana Cummins
