Subject: Regulation AA

Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

As you know, the credit card companies, mortgage companies and oil companies are destroying the American economy. For some reason, they have decided to gorge themselves at the expense of American consumers and to destroy the necessary balance. It will take a strong determined government, all three branches, and a capable, non-partisan Federal Reserve to bring it all back into balance. A first step in this process is strict regulation of the lending industry, perhaps even reinstatement of the usury laws. They have been running amok under the present administration and without serious regulation this country, as we know it, will fail.

Sincerely,

Ms. Monica Kelly Wright
