Dear Email comments,

Please adopt the rules now under consideration to curtail the abusive practices engaged in against consumers by credit card companies. The credit card companies have profited long enough on the backs of consumers with through their government-sanctioned ability to, for example, hike interest rates on existing balances (unless you pay 30 days late) or apply your monthly payment to low-interest debt first.

The companies should give you time between the bill and the due date so you can always pay on time, and they should stop interest charges on debts paid off the previous month.
Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jack Pliskin
