Dear Email comments,

Credit card companies enjoy tremendous LEGALIZED advantages over their customers that would make a shady loan shark green with envy (and money).

It's really a short-sited approach. In the long run, the banks themselves are hurt by defaults, bitter feelings and decreased spending.

Unfortunately, the average American is unwilling and probably unable to boycott these usurious credit institutions. Hence, the need for some government legislation levelling the playing field a bit. Even ticks, mosquitoes and leeches leave SOME blood behind for the host.

Sincerely,

Dr. Wayne Sygman
