Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

Ever since regulations have been lifted from credit card companies, they have become vultures. This is a national disgrace and something needs to be done.

There is no excuse for allowing credit card companies to run amok the way they have. The current administration has done so much damage economically, it will take many, many years to recover.

Deregulation has NEVER benefited the consumer. I live in Texas where electricity deregulation has resulted in a higher cost of electricity that almost anywhere in the nation and Texas is an energy powerhouse. Also, since deregulation of college tuition in Texas, tuition has increased by more than 100%.

What does it take for the people in power to do something that benefits the everyday people of this country?

CREDIT CARD COMPANIES NEED TIGHT REGULATION!!!

Sincerely,

Ms. Laura Jobe
