Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

Banks and credit card companies should not be able to have it both ways-they bombard the average person/family with credit card offers and loans with allegedly good rates and terms and then turn around and nail these people to the cross if they may the slightest misstep or misunderstand the fine print. They should not be able to offer credit and then have the ability to thoroughly trash that credit with ridiculous terms, fees, rates and fine print.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dacia Soulliere
