Commerce Bank charged me a 35.00 for the first time ever stating I didn't have the funds to cover a check. The thing is I made a deposit on July 22 my check didn't post until July 23. I check my account on line everyday and it didn't post until the 23rd but my statement on the 23rd said it posted on July 22. they charged me thirty five dollars and when I tried to dispute it they told me my check cleared the night of the 22 I have never heard of that. Then I was told since I had my deposit on the 22 after five it didn't post on time. It was a cash deposit it should have posted regardless. Well i never got my thirty dollars back and i plan to switch to a federal credit union bank soon.
