Comments:

I think it is so unfair they do this type of practice. I cant believe they are robbing consumers out of so much and money and I think Congress need to do something about it. I think it is sad that we dont know which check and what time it went through the night before..Why dont banks do what prepaid does. When using debit card it takes the money out of your account immediately. Whereas, the banks take the money out and show on account as pending and they once it get posted for some reason I end up having my account bounce. It can be so confusing at time.
