Dear Email comments,

While those of you in your Ivory Towers may not need to worry about the games played by the credit card companies, those of us that placed you in office do. What the credit card companies do is essentially highway robbery. We as consumers have entered into a contract with the credit card companies that states they we will honor our side of the agreement but apparently, the credit card companies are not obligated to do the same. Enough is enough!

Sincerely,

Ms. Phyllis Brodsky
