Federal Reserve Board Email comments

Dear Email comments,

I paid my credit card bill in it's entirety, the following month, I still had interest added to that month bill because I was told that interest was added because of the time difference between them sending the bill and me paying it off. I was within my grace period when I paid my bill off. This should not be allowed. If the credit company says that a certain amount will pay it off, that should be the end of it. The next month payment should be new with no added interest.

Sincerely,

Mr. cesar muniz
