Dear Email comments,

My husband and I have diligently tried to keep excellent credit all of our lives. We have tried to live our lives in a way that demonstrates good stewardship of our finances. But in 2006 my husband was diagnosed with colon cancer and was unable to work during surgery and treatment and is still looking for work. I had to fall back on our good credit by using our credit cards to help pay bills. Now we find ourselves juggling cards to keep the interest rates low. I believe this bill would help substantially for anyone struggling in our economy these days, and we would personally welcome the help.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Janice Maxwell
