Subject: Regulation AA

I despise how credit bureaus allow credit card companies and other creditors to check my credit rating when I have not given my consent to.

My husband discovered that CitiBank had been checking his credit rating every month. We do not have an account with CitiBank. I guess that explains why we receive so many credit card applications from them. We have since informed the credit bureaus to not allow creditors to check our rating w/o our permission.

Imagine all the millions of people who do not know that their credit is being checked w/o their knowledge. These people also do not know how to stop it.
