STOP the abusive overdraft fee practices that banks are imposing on their customers. Many customers don't even know about these practices until they get into trouble. It is outrageous that banks are able to leave an account open and allow you to continue to make transactions unwittingly, then charge overdraft fees. My daughter, aged 19 and in college, recently racked up $350 in overdraft fees after a series of transactions made with her bank debit card. When she talked with a Wells Fargo bank manager, he told her she could handle this debt (of debits and fees) by taking out a WF Visa card and transferring all the overdrafts and fees to this new card. My daughter got the Visa card. , My daughter has NO CREDIT, NO JOB, NO MONEY and an irresponsible spending pattery. How can someone with this background get a credit card !!! Banks with credit card offers start soliciting kids when they are teenagers. What a bad message. People of any age should NOT INCUR OVERDRAFT FEES because they should not be able to spend if they don't have money in the bank. Marcia Hamilton
