To whom it may concern:

I'm a voter and a concerned citizen. I'm worried about overdraft fees and the lengths banks take to steal from the consumer. What worries me most is that they're allowed to get away with it. My own bank (Bank of America) will overdraft my account based on a pending payment that hasn't even gone through. Yet when I have a pending deposit, it doesn't count.

Please help bring some decency back into our banks.

Thank you!
