When you passed the law several years ago to disclose YSP-as Brokers, we did. Now you want to take it away and make the issue more complicated than ever. How is this going to make it better for the consumer? It's not!! You should worry about putting the people that commit mortgage fraud in jail instead of coming up with new laws that DON'T help the consumer. All this is going to do is put more lenders out of business and gives the consumer less choices! So is it that everyone wants Bank of America to be the only bank standing??
