Wow! What else are we going to control? the loan originators make up 80% or more of the loans done in this country. So passing this law you will flood local banks with people who cant get mortgages because local banks require higher credit ratings? the bank pays us our yield spread. How about having the banks lend money instead of sitting on it, my money and all the tax payers money that we pay to save their companies. They sit on it and let their stocks go up then Joe CEO takes his golden parachute. How about putting a limit on congress and the senate, on how much they could receive in donations? Why don't you limit the amount that a credit card company could raise your interest rate? or just cancel your limit cause your not spending money on your card.. You guys are killing middle america squeezing us out. We pay for your salary to support your families and all you do is kill us, while we fight and claw and scratch to support ours. Leave this alone we have made the FHA or government billions of dollars over the years. Lets this one go. Please
