The Federal Reserve Banks (FED), Treasury and Securities Exchange Commission (SEC) have failed in their respective roles to regulate the financial industry. This has led to a bubbling/bursting (i.e., boiling) economy. Over the last 25 years we have seen many varied industries boil over and explode. The Savings and Loan/Real-Estate Industries, The Information Technology/Telecommunications industries, The Oil industry, Health Care Industry and the Investment Banking/Insurance/Real-Estate Industries have all gone through or are going through a process of unsustainable wealth creation. With proper and responsible lending practices, we can prevent industries from exploding and create sustainable wealth creation. By using the FED, Treasury and SEC and other government agencies effectively we can exert the necessary pressure on the financial industry to prevent industries from exploding. The Health Care Industry is going to explode, if we don't do something about it now. These controlling mechanisms are well known, but have been irresponsibly and systematically dismantled over the past 25 years. Please put them back in place. It is also essential that "Fair Trade" practices be put in place so that we can have free markets. Controlled markets, such as the American Health Insurance Industry hurt Americans by overcharging for perceived insurance. The International markets for manufactured (imported) goods and information technology services (outsourcing) use unfair trade practices to displace American workers. These reforms are essential for creating sustainable wealth creation and economic growth. Keep America great, please don't let our country be destroyed by avarice.
