I totally agree with this proposal on credit card total maximum rates. I also think they should do something about the trial offers that charge a shipping and handling charge and then a week later, send you an additional supply, and charge your account from $75 to $100. for something you did not order. It is all fraud and deceptive advertising. Someone should pass a bill against this. It seems like all these companies are doing this. Then to try and get it off your bank account is almost impossible.
