Comments:

The Truth in Lending Act was formulated to protect consumers from fraudulent acts by those in the lending industry that, because of superior knowledge and influence, seek to engage in activities that are deemed to be predatory or unfair. Any changes to the Act that favor the "lenders" even further is corrupt and irresponsible. This new move toward "reforming" the Act is a direct and obvious response to the real estate debacle caused by, and intended exclusively to benefit, Wall St. and then banksters that are at the root of the problem. If you must "reform" this Act, do it in favor of those harmed by Wall St. and not to legitimize the criminals.
