Dear Federal Reserve:

Dear FDIC Public Servants,

The grocery industry works hard to keep food for your citizens at the lowest cost in the world (12% of income).

We are public servants to the USA just like you.

The USA bankers get the highest salaries in the world, and want extra money from us for card fees.

The US bankers need to be public servants too.

We go to jail if we set prices, so should the bankers.

You bailed out the big banks, now help main street a little. We do not want a handout, just competition in the card business, and transparency.

Sincerely,

Howard Bargreen
