Comments:

Considering the impact of the economy, home ownership is still desired. Seller financed homes offer the opportunity for home ownership for many who deserve the right to purchase a home, but may not have the financial means required by mortgage companies. Making it more difficult than it already is would be crippling. With all of the issues coming from Captial Hill, the little person is continuously being put further and further down. Pleaes don't create even more road blocks or devistate an already devistated chance that people are being confronted with. Please some chance of being able to have the American Dream of home ownership. Seller financing done honestly offers a hope of living the dream. Thank you for your consideration of my comments.
