Citizens who want to sell their homes should not be encumbered with Banking rules (which the Banks ignore anyway). A contract to sell a home is made by two consenting parties to an mutually agreed price. Why should an individual have to go to extreme lengths and costs to accomplish what has been done since our country was founded except to destroy this freedom and shift the ability to a bank and/or lawyer who only have their interests at heart (making more and more money). The government should stop encroaching in citizens lives and pocketbooks with socialistic rules and regulations.
