Since the banks have proven to be incapable of managing their own affairs as well as creating products that not only destroy investors capital but the banks as well, they should not be given free rein to do whatever they want because they do not exist in a vaccum. Then again, I am not so sure that the government proves itself to be the best watchdog, but it is about the only organization that is strong enough to stand up to the banks, when you do, so I only hope that you will stop listening to the overpaid idiots they send to influence you. Do what is good for the country for once.

Thank you e.
