Your comment: I am sick of the way the banks trade commodities. They should not be allowed to.

Can you tell me why they are allowed to? And why are they allowed to become so big that they manipulate the trading in various markets? It appears this is occurring in the silver, gold and LIBOR markets. With proof that various people have provided. Why were they not given more than a slap on the wrist when caught doing so?

Would appreciate if you could change this.

Thanks,

Victor Majid.
